

GREG LETSON: PHOTOGRAPHY STATEMENT 2018

My photographic work is a documentation of my experiences in the world. In their best moments, the images I capture both tell and reveal stories. The way in which I choose to visualize an image is my telling of the story, while the actual subject itself possesses its own story to be revealed within a photograph.

I find that the world is rich and rife with people, places & things that have stories to be brought forth. It's my ambition to pierce the skin of surface appearances and to discern these stories as they make themselves known to me. The images that are brought forth from this process are both a tribute to our human condition and a salute to the transcendent.
